The Master Plan

Michael Healey trained as an actor at Toronto’s Metropolitan University Theatre School in the mid-eighties. He began writing for the stage in the early nineties and his first play, a solo one-act called Kicked, was produced at the Toronto Fringe Festival in 1996. He subsequently toured the play across Canada and internationally, winning the Dora Mavor Moore Award for Best New Play. The Drawer Boy, his first full-length play, premiered in Toronto in 1999, winning the Dora Award for Best New Play, the Chalmers Canadian Playwriting Award, and the Governor General’s Literary Award (Canada’s highest literary honour). It has been translated into multiple languages and continues to be produced regularly across North America and internationally. Healey’s other works include The Road to Hell (co-authored with Kate Lynch), Plan B, Rune Arlidge, The Innocent Eye Test, The Nuttalls, Are You Okay, and 1979. His trilogy focusing on Canadian values and politics—Generous, Courageous, and Proud—met with great critical success and have had multiple productions. In all, his plays have won the Dora Mavor Moore Award for best new play five times. He has also adapted works by Chekhov, Molnar, Hecht and MacArthur, Dürrenmatt, and Shaw for the Stratford Festival, the Shaw Festival, and Soulpepper. He continues to find work as an actor occasionally.

In 2017, when the public agency Waterfront Toronto decided to put up a parcel of land for development, Sidewalk Labs, a subsidiary of Google’s Alphabet Inc., swept in with a proposal to create the city of the future. Waterfront Toronto jumped at the opportunity to advance housing sustainability and affordability by exploring Alphabet’s innovative technology and data-driven techniques. But the project quickly started to fall apart from uneasy partnerships, sclerotic local politics, and an overwhelmingly negative public response.

In this biting comedy about the failure to build a smart city in Toronto, Michael Healey lampoons the corporate drama, epic personalities, and iconic Canadian figures involved in the messy affair between Sidewalk Labs and Waterfront Toronto. Based on the bestselling exposé, Sideways: The City Google Couldn’t Buy by Josh O’Kane, The Master Plan exposes the hubris of big tech, the feebleness of government, and the dangers of public consultation with sharp wit and insightful commentary.

September
5.375” x 8.375” | 128 pages
$18.95 | 9780369104809
3 f, 3 m, 1 actor
The play will be produced by Crow’s Theatre, Toronto, in September 2023
Subjects: Adaptations, Comedy, History, Political Theatre
• Based on the bestselling exposé, Sideways: The City Google Couldn’t Buy by Josh O’Kane
• Premiering as part of Crow’s Theatre’s 40th season

Michael Healey
Michael Healey trained as an actor at Toronto’s Metropolitan University Theatre School in the mid-eighties. He began writing for the stage in the early nineties and his first play, a solo one-act called Kicked, was produced at the Toronto Fringe Festival in 1996. He subsequently toured the play across Canada and internationally, winning the Dora Mavor Moore Award for Best New Play. The Drawer Boy, his first full-length play, premiered in Toronto in 1999, winning the Dora Award for Best New Play, the Chalmers Canadian Playwriting Award, and the Governor General’s Literary Award (Canada’s highest literary honour). It has been translated into multiple languages and continues to be produced regularly across North America and internationally. Healey’s other works include The Road to Hell (co-authored with Kate Lynch), Plan B, Rune Arlidge, The Innocent Eye Test, The Nuttalls, Are You Okay, and 1979. His trilogy focusing on Canadian values and politics—Generous, Courageous, and Proud—met with great critical success and have had multiple productions. In all, his plays have won the Dora Mavor Moore Award for best new play five times. He has also adapted works by Chekhov, Molnar, Hecht and MacArthur, Dürrenmatt, and Shaw for the Stratford Festival, the Shaw Festival, and Soulpepper. He continues to find work as an actor occasionally.
Set seven years before King Lear, Queen Goneril centres the struggles of Lear’s daughters as they negotiate patriarchal systems built to keep them relegated to the sidelines. In Goneril, we find a natural-born leader. In Regan, a boundary pusher. And in Cordelia, a reluctant peacekeeper. As the three work to dismantle their individual constraints, a storm of inner reckoning begins to brew that reflects their deepest yearnings and mirrors our contemporary world.

Whip smart and wide awake, Queen Goneril is another deliciously disruptive adaptation from Erin Shields. In her signature revisionist style, Shields investigates some of our most urgent feminist issues by reimagining the roles of women in classic texts—shifting them from subjects, objects, or witnesses to central figures of both their own lives and the story’s narrative. Queen Goneril lays bare the challenges of maintaining authenticity while achieving authority—how we retain a strong sense of self while twisting around systems meant to make us play small. A compelling story about complicated characters struggling—the way we all struggle—to find their place in this world.

Queen Goneril stays credible and remains compelling to its conclusion—and, thankfully, has its own enjoyable in-between dramatic voice; nothing too mock-Shakespearean, but unafraid to sample and remix his words*.

—J. Kelly Nestruck, The Globe and Mail

Shields’ script imbues the sisters with complex and sympathetic human motivations—love, empathy, fear, jealousy, shame, rage—which are constricted by the suffocating cellophane of social mores, race, class and gender. These are characters striving to be their best, while society and circumstance reduce them to clawing holes and gasping for air.

—Scott Sneddon, SesayArts Magazine

… a post-modern wink to let us know that the crimes and micro-aggressions against women in the past still exist.

—Drew Rowsome, MyGayToronto
What is the future of Blackness? Obsidian Theatre presents twenty-one versions of it.

In 2021, Obsidian Theatre engaged twenty-one writers to create twenty-one new stories about imagined Black futures. Twenty-one to celebrate Obsidian’s twenty-first anniversary in 2021. Each playwright was tasked with scripting a ten-minute monodrama in response to the question “What is the future of Blackness?” To counter the intense early-pandemic isolation and the trauma of witnessing heightened violence toward Black bodies, Obsidian’s goal was to give as many opportunities as possible to as many diverse Black artists and to bring new voices together from both theatre and film. It was a grand experiment to create a rich tapestry of possibilities and to uplift Black artists in the process.

A radical offering in unprecedented times, newly appointed Obsidian artistic director Mumbi Tindyebwa Otu’s curatorial aim was joyful, aspirational, and empowering: come together in this moment and create something communal, unapologetically Black, and with the Black gaze at its centre—art as the architecture for creating those futures.

You May Also Like

- The Death Doula by Amanda Parris
- The Sender by Cheryl Foggo
- Jah in the Ever-Expanding Song by Kaie Kellough
- Bayere by Shauntay Grant
- Madness With Rocks by Peeyeo Akintade-oluwagbeye
- Witness Shift by Donna-Michelle St. Bernard
- Sensitivity by Lawrence Hill
- Special by Keshia Cheshman
- Umoja Corp by Jacob Sampson
- Notice by Luke Reece
- Blackberries by Miali-Elise Coley-Sudlovenick
- Emmett by Syrus Marcus Ware
- Georgeena by Djanet Sears
- Rebirth of the Afronauts by Motion Cavities by K.P Dennis
- 40 Parsecs and Some Fuel by Omari Newton
- The Prescription by Lisa Codrington
- Chronologie by Stephie Mazunya
- Yen ara asaase ni by Tawiah M’Carthy
- Builders of Nations by Joseph Jomo Pierre
- Omega Child by Cherissa Richards
A small military-occupied community sits, waiting, parched of natural water while nearby levees hold the rising global shoreline. Seventeen-year-old twins Alix and Evan pass the time in an empty, abandoned pool with what they are able to scavenge from the deserted houses, while government official Portia returns to familiar places, her past colliding with the present. The planned evacuation notice that eventually reaches all cities has finally come, but the twins learn that survival is not guaranteed. As they rush to reach their grandmother, a retired journalist now living with dementia, her snippets of memories flow like humanity's record player, skipping tracks before the final flood.

A non-linear poetic play that acts like a postcard from the future, Shorelines is about family and community in a world ravaged by climate change. It also speaks to the inevitable inequality of disaster response and how poorer communities are disproportionately affected by it. Mishka Lavigne’s message within her lyrical piece is urgent and multi-dimensional: it is a reminder that all things are connected and hope can only lie in the relationships we form with the people around us.

Mishka Lavigne

Mishka Lavigne (she/her) is a playwright, screenwriter, and literary translator based in Ottawa/Gatineau. Her plays have been produced and developed in Canada, Switzerland, France, Germany, Australia, Haiti, and the United States. Her play Havre was awarded the 2019 Governor General’s Literary Award for Drama (French). Her play Copeaux, a movement-based poetic creation piece with director Éric Perron, premiered in Ottawa in March 2020 and was also awarded the Governor General’s Literary Award for Drama in 2021 as well as the Prix littéraire Jacques-Poirier. Albumen, her first play written in English, received the Prix Rideau Award for Outstanding New Creation in 2019 and the QWF Playwriting Prize in 2020. Mishka is currently working on a bilingual opera libretto with Montreal composer Tim Brady and on four new creations in French, as well as on some translation and screenwriting projects.

Also by Mishka Lavigne

You May Also Like
Black Boys

Black Boys by Saga Collectif (Virgilia Griffith, Stephen Jackman-Torkoff, Tawiah M’Carthy, Thomas Antony Olajide, and Jonathan Seinen) uncovers the complex dynamics of the queer Black experience. Text, movement, and design portray the rhythm and vulnerability of three very different Black individuals who seek a deeper understanding of themselves, each other, and of how they encounter the world. As they explore their unique identities, their performances rigorously interrogate and playfully subvert the ways in which gender, sexuality, and race are read and performed.

Theatrical and intimate, Black Boys weaves together the ensemble’s own personal stories in search of an integrated self and a radical imagination while shining a light on new possibilities for young Black queer people.

Praise for Black Boys

“This is an exceptional, powerful, and quite delightful piece of work.” — S. Bear Bergman, Mooney on Theatre

“This Black Boys suggests that conflicts don’t have to be smoothed over, but can be the beginning of creativity.” — J. Kelly Nestruck, The Globe and Mail

You May Also Like

Saga Collectif

Stephen Jackman-Torkoff is a lover, a wandering poet, and a disco dancer. They were born in Toronto and raised in foster care in Richmond Hill. Stephen has acted in several productions across Canada including Angels in America, Botticelli in the Fire / Sunday in Sodom, and The Glass Menagerie. Stephen is the resident poet with the Queer Songbook Orchestra and toured with them in October 2019 to ten cities across Canada. This year they will be working on a multidisciplinary solo piece called Die Phantastiker. After spending a lot of time in institutions, Stephen is now immersing themselves in creation and collaboration beyond institutional walls.

Tawiah M’Carthy is an Akuapem Larteh, Ghanaian-born, theatre artist and professional. He is a founding member of Blue Bird Theatre Collective and Saga Collectif. Tawiah’s playwright/creator/performer credits include The Kente Cloth, Obamaerima (2013 Dora Award winner for Best Production), and Maanomaa, My Brother. He was a Metcalf Artistic Director intern and programming curator for the 2019/20 Festival of Ideas and Creation at Canadian Stage. Tawiah is a Dora Award-nominated playwright and performer. He trained at York University and is currently the Artist Outreach and Development Coordinator at Canadian Stage. He lives in Toronto.

Thomas Antony Olajide is a stage and screen actor from Vancouver, BC. Some of his leading film credits include Inhuman Condition, Mariner, White Lie, and Nomadland for which he was nominated for Best Actor at the 35th Prix Gémeaux. Some theatre credits include Black Boys, Love’s Labour’s Lost, Hamlet, and King Lear (for which he received Stratford Festival’s Peter Donaldson award), Macbeth, The Winter’s Tale, Olivier, And Slowly, Beauty, The Whipping Man, and Ruined. He is a Dora Mavor Moore Award nominee as well as a graduate of the National Theatre School of Canada, the Stratford Birmingham Conservatory, and the Canadian Film Centre.

Virgilia Griffith is a Toronto-based actor and movement artist. Winner of the META Emerging Artist Award for Gas Girls by Donna-Michelle St. Bernard and the Dora Mavor Moore Award for Outstanding Performance for Harlem Duet by Dj neat Sear, she was also a Dora Mavor Moore nominee for Outstanding Female in the Independent Theatre Division for her performance of Honesty, directed by Jordan Tannahill, and Iphigenia and the Furies (On Taurian Land) by Ho Ka Kei (Jeff Ho). Selected credits include Guarded Girls, The Wedding Party, Other Side of the Game, da Kink in my hair, and Up the Garden Path. She is a graduate of Toronto Metropolitan University with a BFA in Theatre Performance.

Jonathan Seinen is a founding member of Saga Collectif and Boys in Chairs Collective, co-artistic producer of Architect Theatre. In addition to directing Black Boys, he directed Iphigenia and the Furies (On Taurian Land), co-created and performed in Highway 63 The Fort, Mac and Like There’s No Tomorrow, he co-created Charisma Furs with Mx. Sly, which was published by Playwrights Canada Press in Q2Q: Queer Canadian Performance Texts. A graduate of the National Theatre School of Canada, he recently completed his MFA in Theatre Directing at Columbia University in New York City. He is an Assistant Professor at SUNY Buffalo State College in Buffalo, New York.
Ravage of Life

Winner of the 2020 Prix Marcel Dubé
Nominated for the 2019 Governor General’s Literary Award for French Drama

For three years, Evelyne de la Chenelière wrote on the long entrance wall in Montreal’s Espace GO as part of an artistic residency that would profoundly shake her outlook on words, theatre practice, and writing. The culmination of this is Ravage of Life, a bold departure from prevailing norms where the playwright breaks with written and performative conventions in her dramatization of an endless and multi-faceted instant between life and death.

In this experimental text, bits and pieces of a family’s realities unfold in a non-linear simultaneity that reflects with captivating irony the difficulties encountered when language is expected to facilitate communication.

Ravage of Life is a challenging invitation to eviscerate theatre and create a space where thought finds its body, freeing theatrical languages from grammatical constraints, logic, and structure in order to promise new theatrical experiences.

October
5.25” x 7.625” | 144 pages
$22.95 | 9780369102720
4 f, 1 m
First produced by Espace GO and Festival TransAmériques in a collaboration with Infrarouge, Montreal, in April 2018

Subjects: Translations; Family Life; Feminist Theatre; Death, Grief & Loss; Women Writers; Quebec Playwrights

• The book will feature a foreword from Louise, an introductory essay from Evelyne, and photographs of the production and the wall

You May Also Like

Evelyne de la Chenelière translated by Louise H. Forsyth

Evelyne de la Chenelière, Montreal-based author and actress, has written plays staged in Quebec and abroad that have been translated and published in several languages. Her collection of plays, Desordre public, won the Governor General’s Literary Award for French Drama in 2006, while her plays Les pieds des anges, La chair et autres fragments de l’amour, and La vie utile were nominated in 2009, 2012, and 2019 respectively. Her play Bashir Lazhar was adapted to film by Philippe Falardeau and was nominated for Best Foreign Language Film at the 2012 Academy Awards. The Académie des lettres du Québec awarded La vie utile the Marcel Dubé Prize in 2020. Evelyne’s first feature film is currently in development with micro_scope.

Louise H. Forsyth, now retired, has been a member of the Canadian Association for Theatre Research from the beginning. She had the privilege of teaching drama, poetry, women’s, and gender studies at Western University and the University of Saskatchewan. She has held several administrative positions and published articles, books, translations, and scholarly papers on Quebec women writers of theatre and poetry, including the three-volume Anthology of Quebec Women’s Plays in English Translation, Marie Savard’s Bien à moi (Mine Sincerely), Nicole Brossard: Essays on her Works, and Mobility of Light: The Poetry of Nicole Brossard. She lives in Calgary.
Retreating to Re-Treat: A Performative Encounter at The “Edge of the Woods”

In 2019, a group of scholar-artists led by Jill Carter stood with their audience in a liminal space at the edge of the woods—a space between now and then, a space between now and later. Together, they engaged in a survivance intervention: an Indigenous reclamation of territory, using Storyweaving practices rooted in personal connections to the land as a method of restor(y)ing treaty relationships.

Retreating to Re-Treat documents both their artistic offering and creation process, offered in the spirit of knowledge-sharing and enriching scholarship around collaborative practices. By revealing their unique and still-developing method for addressing a fraught and tangled (hi)story, the Collective Encounter invites readers to join them as they mediate those sites of profound experiences and renewal—sites in which the project of conciliation might truly begin.

You May Also Like

The Collective Encounter is comprised of a courageous group of scholar-artists who came together in July 2019 to create a survivance intervention that would effect an Indigenous reclamation of territory, placing the settler and Indigenous body, alike, into direct confrontation with a difficult history that has been written over by colonial occupation and invention. This intervention, Encounters at the “Edge of the Woods,” opened Hart House Theatre’s centenary season in September 2019.

Jill Carter (Anishinaabe/Ashkenazi) works in Tkaronto with many Indigenous artists to support the development of new works and to disseminate artistic objectives, process, and outcomes through community-driven research projects. Her scholarly research, creative projects, and activism are built upon ongoing relationships with Elders, scholars, youth, artists, and activists positioning her as witness to, participant in, and disseminator of oral histories that speak to the application of Indigenous aesthetic principles and traditional knowledge systems to contemporary performance.

October
5.375” x 8.375” | 144 pages
$21.95 | 9780369104649
19 performers
First produced by Hart House Theatre, Toronto, in 2019
Subjects: Indigenous Playwrights; Devised Theatre & Collective Creation; Nonfiction / Essays; History; Political Theatre
• Part script, part documentation of process: restor(y)ation analysis is rare and important
• Lee Maracle’s teachings are crucial foundations upon which Encounters at the “Edge of the Woods” was built
It’s 1970s Winnipeg—a time of revolution and radical possibilities—and an apartment building of Indian immigrant friends is about to be transformed by their latest arrival. A young Bengali Muslim woman, Nuzha, has just married Qasim over the phone at his mother’s insistence, and can’t wait to start her new life with him. But Qasim struggles to let go of his true love, a Canadian nurse named Abby, making him an emotionally and physically distant husband. Broken-hearted but full of pluck, Nuzha finds comfort and adventures on her own terms by exploring every-thing her new community has to offer. From braving the bus schedule to building close relationships with Qasim’s friends, Nuzha’s discoveries are thrill-ing, enriching, and crack open new possibilities for everyone.

From the creator of the powerful solo show CRASH, Pamela Sinha’s New is an evocative, emotionally-ass-tute comedy about the complex nature of love and sacrifice, joyful togetherness and piercing loneliness, and what it means to create entirely new ways of life through our willingness to tread uncharted territory.

Praise for New

“...a masterful portrait of loneliness, yearning, grief and marriage which blends snappy, Neil Simon-esque domestic dialogue with a dramatic sharpness rarely deployed in a play quite so funny.”
—Ben Waldman, The Winnipeg Free Press

“Specific in its details but universal in its themes, New … is one of the best new Canadian plays to debut this season.” —Glenn Sumi, So Sumi

You May Also Like
Grocery-store clerk Beth has had a hell of a week. A hell of a life, actually, full of people squashing her soul. And after pushing back at life—stabbing a steak to her boss’s desk and lighting a magazine rack on fire, for instance—freshly unemployed Beth regroups at her mom’s suburban home. Just when Beth starts to think she’s to blame for systemic limits, the gift of a bird feeder sparks a relationship with a talking Crow who reconnects her with her true power.

This sly chamber piece from new voice Caleigh Crow turns post-capitalism ennui on its head with a righteous fury. It unearths the subtle (and not so subtle) ways we gaslight the marginalized, especially Indigenous women, people living with mental-health afflictions, and anyone struggling to make ends meet in low-income service jobs. There Is Violence captures the vivacity and humour of one truly remarkable woman not meant for this earth, and brings her to her own glorious transcendence.

There is Violence and There is Righteous Violence and There is Death or, The Born-Again Crow

Caleigh Crow is a queer Metis theatre artist from northeast Calgary. Previous playwriting topics include a talking crow and a grocery clerk, the mass coronal ejection of 1859, the Antifa supersoldier, the intersection between twelfth century Franciscan nuns and Britney Spears, remote viewing, witch revenge, and a landlord musical. She is the co-founder and artistic lead of Thumbs Up Good Work Theatre. Her work tends towards themes of metaphysics, class struggle, magic, and serious whimsy.
In this rapid moment of expansion in queer theatre, when everything is exposed, interrogated, and investigated, This is Beyond is a time capsule of where we are now and a map for where we might go next. Co-editors Evan Tsitsias and Bilal Baig strike out to capture the magnitude of this seismic shift, asking: How far have we come? What’s changed? What’s stayed the same? What do we need to do to continue to change things? An anthology that moves like a satellite in the sky, This is Beyond confronts and expands our current perceptions so that we may continue to explore the new and unknown.

Monologues, essays, poetry, and opinion pieces speak to the transformation of queer theatre through a myriad of diverse experiences, using stories, myths, and magic to unveil the intersections of queerness and cultures. Each piece gives voice to what it means to be a member of the queer community in an ever-evolving society, offering actors of every age, colour, culture, and generation empowered queer stories to play with, ponder over, learn from, and embody within our current cultural moment.

You May Also Like

Editorial Credits

This is Beyond: A Time Capsule of Queer Experience

October
6” x 9” | 272 pages

$29.95 | 9780369104731

Subjects: 2SLGBT / Queer Theatre; Nonfiction / Essays; Political Theatre; Theatre for Young Audiences: Coming of Age; Theatre for Young Audiences: Dating & Sex

• Bilal Baig is a co-creator of the hit CBC TV show Sort Of
• Evan Tsitsias has been a writer/creator/artist in residence at many renowned theatres: Member of the Tarragon Playwrights Unit, the Stratford Festival Playwright’s Retreat/New Play Development Program, Alumni of the Lincoln Center Theater Directors Lab

You May Also Like

Also by Evan Tsitsias and Bilal Baig

New Releases
In these two entwined, fast-paced plays, the hilarious goings-on behind the scenes of a controversial election chaotically unfold first at the fundraiser that will decide the party’s nominee and then months later at a debate the night before the election.

The top candidates for the Left are Bill Biszy, a gay Black man who’s also the star of the Sharkman film franchise, and Heather Straughan, the tough woman who’s still hampered with the public knowledge that her husband cheated on her many years ago. Both are the guests of honour at Butch Buchanan’s fundraiser—whomever he decides to donate to will get the party’s nomination, and will run against his brother, the leader of the Right. But so many things stand in Bill and Heather’s way before the night ends. Many months later, when the final debate ends in the need for extreme damage control, it’s clearly the worst time for everyone’s secrets to be revealed, but what fun would it be without some election-day drama?

With a large cast of frenzied characters and piercing dialogue, The Party & The Candidate will make sure you never look at politics the same way again.

Praise for The Party & The Candidate

“As ambitious and complex a theatrical endeavour as you could imagine… This is an ingenious, audacious, fun and delightful concept.” —Marsha Lederman, The Globe and Mail

“The media and celebrity culture and politics, in the sack together in an ungodly three-way, political correctness platitudes and their vicious old-school reverse, earnest idealists and pop culture trash-talkers… they all get teased or defrocked or compromised in the course of The Party and The Candidate.” —Liz Nicholls, 12thnight.ca

You May Also Like
On the twentieth anniversary of its first volume, Staging Coyote's Dream Volume 3 is a curated collection of new works rooted in Indigenous values, aesthetics, and narrative structures. Inspired by their own dramaturgical practices and current conversations in contemporary theatre creation, co-editors Monique Mojica and Lindsay Lachance identify the invaluable and understudied ways that many Indigenous theatre artists are creating culturally specific dramaturgical processes and shifting the paradigm for what is considered “text.” By presenting models for relational theatre-making and land-based explorations outside the traditional “well-made-play” structure, Staging Coyote's Dream Volume 3 is more than just a collection of plays; it offers some strategies and tools for how Indigenous artists can reimagine the structures of new-play development and performance on Turtle Island.

An anthology that identifies and highlights a vast array of anti-colonial performing arts processes, including reclamation, embodiment, and community-engaged work—to name only a few—Mojica and Lachance gather the works of artists leading these practices to not only honour how their plays are expanding dramaturgy, but to build Indigenous performance literacies for all practitioners creating on Turtle Island.

Includes

Deer Woman by Tara Beagan, with an introduction by Jill Carter

Finding Wolostaq Voice by Natalie Sappier, with an introduction by Andy Moro

Contraries: A Chamber Requiem by Spy Dénommé-Welch and Catherine Magowan, with an introduction by Jean Becker

Blood Tides by Kahawi Dance Theatre, with an introduction by Ngahuia Murphy

Material Witness by Spiderwoman Theatre and Aanimataagzi, with an introduction by Penny Couchie and Muriel Miguel

Izzie M: The Alchemy of Enfreakment by Monique Mojica, with an introduction by Jenn Cole

My Sister’s Rage by Yolanda Bonnell, with an introduction by Aria Evans

---

Monique Mojica (Guna and Rappahannock nations) is an actor/playwright/dramaturg/artist-scholar spun from the family web of Spiderwoman Theater. Monique's artistic practice mines stories embedded in the body in connection to land and place. She has created land-based, embodied dramaturgies and taught Indigenous theatre in theory, process, and practice throughout Canada, the US, Latin America, and Europe. She is a member of the newly formed Indigenous Dramaturgy Circle at Tarragon Theatre. Monique is the 2023 inaugural Wurlitzer Visiting Professor at the University of Victoria's Theatre Department. Forthcoming publications include Chocolate Woman Dreams the Milky Way: Mapping Embodied Indigenous Performance, written with Brenda Farnell (University of Michigan Press, 2023).

Lindsay Lachance (Algonquin Anishinaabe) has worked as a dramaturg for over a decade and is Assistant Professor in the department of Theatre and Film at the University of British Columbia. Lindsay's dramaturgical practice is influenced by her relationship with birch bark biting and the Gatineau River.

Also by Monique Mojica

Finding Wolostaq Voice

Blood Tides

Izzie M: The Alchemy of Enfreakment

You May Also Like

Deer Woman

Finding Wolostaq Voice

Blood Tides
In an adaptation of the classic Canadian novel, this epic play follows three generations of a Cape Breton Island family in a tale of forbidden love, inescapable bonds, and devastating betrayals, all while harbouring secrets that threaten to shatter the family entirely.

At the dawn of the twentieth century, a young piano tuner named James Piper and thirteen-year-old Materia Mahmoud fall into a whirlwind romance. As their family grows, the couple is strained by dark revelations that lead to dangerous consequences. Their headstrong daughters Kathleen, Frances, Mercedes, and Lily grow up haunted but fiercely connected in ways they must learn to fully understand. A richly layered story by turns both heartbreaking and joyous, Fall On Your Knees is a vivid portrayal of love, desire, and the quest for truth and redemption.

Fall on Your Knees

November

5.375” x 8.375” | 288 pages

$20.95 | 9780369104229

8 f, 5 m, doubling

First produced in a joint production between Canadian Stage in Toronto, the National Arts Centre in Ottawa, Grand Theatre in London, Neptune Theatre in Halifax, and Vita Brevis Arts, from January to March 2023

Subjects: Feminist Theatre; Romance; Atlantic Playwrights: Nova Scotia; Adaptations; Death, Grief & Loss; Family Life; Women Writers

---

developed for the stage by Alisa Palmer

Alisa Palmer is an award-winning theatre director, playwright, and producer and has developed, premiered, and toured original and provocative theatre creations for over twenty-five years. She is the recipient of numerous awards both in Canada and internationally, including six Dora Mavor Moore Awards, three Chalmers Awards, and a Harold Award for her contribution to independent theatre. She is a three-time finalist for the Siminovitch Prize and a recipient of the Premier’s Award for Excellence in the Arts. Ms. Palmer is Executive Artistic Director of the National Theatre School of Canada, English Section, and Artistic Producer of Vita Brevis Arts. She is married to author Ann-Marie MacDonald, with whom she has two children.

adapted from the novel by Ann-Marie MacDonald

Ann-Marie MacDonald is an award-winning novelist, playwright, actor, and broadcast host. Her writing for the stage includes the plays Goodnight Desdemona (Good Morning Juliet), Belle Moral: A Natural History, and Hamlet-911, along with the libretto for the chamber opera Nigredo Hotel, and book and lyrics for the musical Anything That Moves. She is the author of the bestselling novels Fall On Your Knees, The Way the Crow Flies, Adult Onset, and Fayne. Ann-Marie is a graduate of the acting program of the National Theatre School of Canada. In 2018 she was made an Officer of the Order of Canada in recognition of her contribution to the arts and her LGBTQ2SI+ activism. She is married to theatre director Alisa Palmer, with whom she has two children.
This collection of essays focuses how dance and movement engage and enact political questions around agency, mobility, pedagogy, and resistance. Committed to crossing disciplinary boundaries, Power Moves looks to movement knowledge for its radical insights and critical forms of public intervention and pedagogy.

The writers of this collection examine cultural and social patterns in action in the studio, on the stage, and from the street, and in doing so give voice to fresh perspectives from Canadian dance and performance studies on social, political, and cultural values in the twenty-first century. Contributors include Evadne Kelly, Karyn Recollet and Emily Johnson, Angélique Willkie, Christine Mazumdar, Natalie Alvarez, Gabe Levine, and Mary Fogarty, with an introduction and individual contributions from editors Seika Boye and MJ Thompson.

Also in the NECT Series

Seika Boye is a scholar, writer, educator, and artist whose practices revolve around dance and movement. She is an assistant professor and director of the Institute for Dance Studies at the Centre for Drama, Theatre and Performance Studies at the University of Toronto. Seika curated the archival exhibition It’s About Time: Dancing Black in Canada 1900–1970 (2018) and co-curated Into the Light: Eugenics and Education in Southern Ontario (2019). She was an artist-in-residence at the Art Gallery of Ontario (2018), a Toronto District School Board African Heritage Educators’ Network Arts Honoree (2019), and a 2020 recipient of the Lieutenant Governor’s Ontario Heritage Award (co-curator, Into the Light). Her writing has appeared in numerous academic journals and magazines. She is based in Toronto.

MJ Thompson is a Montreal-based writer and teacher working on dance, performance, and visual art. A fan of dance in all its forms, she has been watching and writing about movement and performance for over twenty years. Committed to popular culture and everyday aesthetics, she has written for a wide variety of publications, including Ballettanz, Border Crossings, The Brooklyn Rail, Canadian Art, Dance Current, Dance Ink, Dance Magazine, The Drama Review, The Globe and Mail, Women and Performance, Theatre Journal, and more. Her academic work is funded by the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council in Canada, and her essays have appeared in several anthologies, including Performance Studies Canada (McGill-Queen’s University Press, 2017). Most recently, she received the National Park Service Arts and Sciences Residency, Cape Cod National Seashore, August 2019, where she worked on a long-form essay about the concept of the view as embodied.
Eraser

by Bilal Baig and Sadie Epstein-Fine

with Christol Bryan, Marina Gomes, Yousef Kadoura, Tijiki Morris, Anthony Perpuse, and Nathan Redburn

November
5.375" x 8.375" | 128 pages
$18.95 | 9780369104120
6 roles
First produced as part of Why Not Theatre’s Riser Project, Toronto, in May 2019
Subjects: (Im)migration; 2SLGBTQ+; (Im)possibilities;（Im）possible; (In)visible; Bullying; Disability; Death; Grief & Loss; Theatre for Young Audiences: Bullying; Theatre for Young Audiences

Eraser originates from a devised theatre course a few of the authors took together, inspired by conversations about the group’s diverse upbringings.

• Eraser originated from a devised theatre course a few of the authors took together, inspired by conversations about the group’s diverse upbringings.
• One of the authors, Bilal Baig, is the star and co-creator of the hit HBO/CBC series Sort Of

An immersive experience, Eraser delves into the memories and fantasies of a classroom of students as they figure out who they want to be. Six students guide readers through their different journeys, taking them along to the cafeteria, change rooms, and playground, to the places where they feel safest and the most brave, vulnerable, and afraid.

Afroze just moved to Canada from Pakistan and is struggling to fit in as a white-skinned gender-questioning convert to Islam. Ali Jihad wants is to be cool, but he struggles with the appearance of this new student who doesn’t look like any of the Muslims he knows. Noah’s brother just died, and he’s been avoiding processing his grief, which makes him lash out at his best friend, Eli. Eli doesn’t know how to support Noah, who he also harbours questioning feelings for.

Whitney wants to live by her own rules in her own imaginary world, but she’s forced to deal with annoying kids like Tara. Tara loves school and getting straight As, but all the pressure she feels eventually adds up and she crumbles.

Finding a balance between tough realities and honest fantasies, Eraser is an energetic and sentimental look at what it’s like to navigate differences and connections as a kid.

You May Also Like

Also by Bilal Baig

Bilal Baig (they/them) is a queer, trans-feminine, Muslim playwright, performer, and workshop facilitator. Bilal’s first play, Acha Bacha, had its world premiere in 2018. Bilal is a core team member at non-profits such as Story Planet and Rivers of Hope, where they develop and facilitate workshops for youth in under-resourced neighbourhoods in Toronto.

Sadie Epstein-Fine (they/them) loves telling stories, being in nature, working with young people, and being surrounded by community. They take on many artistic roles including directing, writing, and choreography. They are passionate about watching and creating musicals, immersive theatre, and theatre for young audiences.

Christol Bryan is a first-generation Canadian artist of Afro-Caribbean descent. Her work uses the experiences of her life and family to tell meaningful stories that resonate in a continued effort to bring people from all walks of life closer to a common understanding. Christol is a performer who has training in clown, contemporary vocal, and physical theatre techniques.

Born in Toronto, Marina Gomes is a graduate of the University of Windsor BFA acting program. As an actor/creator, Marina has trained with members of the SITI Company, Festival Players Academy, and was a Young Innovator at Nightwood Theatre. Marina shares her passion for theatre and learning as an artist educator with various companies throughout the GTA.

Yousef Kadoura was born in the midwestern United States and raised in Ottawa, Ontario. He is a Lebanese Canadian actor, writer, and producer, as well as a right leg below knee amputee. Yousef is a graduate of the 2017 acting program at the National Theatre School of Canada. Yousef is also a founding company member of Other HeArts, a new performance collective.

Tijiki Morris was raised in Pakistan and came to Canada at eighteen. They co-created and lead the puppetry collective Artichoke Heart, where they directed and devised pieces including We Walk Among You and Cirkular. Their play Rootless was presented at the SummerWorks Performance Festival and Theatre Passe Muraille’s Buzz Series.

Anthony Perpuse mostly goes by Tony and uses he/him pronouns. He is a Filipino Canadian actor who received his BFA in Performance Acting from Toronto Metropolitan University in 2016 and was awarded the Perry Schneiderman Comedy Award. Some of his theatre credits include Theory, Through the Bamboo, and Orestes.

Nathan Redburn is a multidisciplinary actor and creator from the small farm town of Arthur, Ontario, with an affinity for devised theatre, performance creation, improv, sketch comedy, and writing. Nathan takes inspiration for characters he creates and in his writing from his hometown and his own lived experiences.
Theatre Communications Group (US)

Theatre Communications Group (TCG) is the national organization for the American theatre. Based in New York, TCG is one of the largest independent publishers of dramatic literature in North America. In addition to publishing great plays, TCG is also the publisher of American Theatre magazine.

TCG Books Bestsellers

Nick Hern Books (UK)

Nick Hern Books is a London-based independent specialist publisher of plays, theatre books, and screenplays. Their list includes work by many of the UK’s preeminent playwrights, as well as some of the most exciting emerging writers. They work with major theatres across the UK and in Ireland to publish new plays alongside their premieres.

NHB Bestsellers
Ordering and Distribution

Sales

Canadian Manda Group
664 Annette Street, Toronto, ON M6S 2C8
t: 416.516.0911 | f: 416.516.0917 | e: info@mandagroup.com | w: www.mandagroup.com

Customer Service & Orders

t: 416.516.0911 | f: 416.516.0917 | e: info@mandagroup.com

Chris Hickey, Sales Director, Partner
t: 416.516.0911 x229

Tim Gain, National Account Manager, Library Market
t: 416.516.0911 x231

Dave Nadalin, National Account Manager, Toronto
t: 416.516.0911 x1400

Jean Gichon, Account Manager, Alberta, Saskatchewan & Manitoba
t: 403.202.0922 x245

Kristina Koski, Account Manager, Special Markets
t: 416.516.0911 x234

David Farag, Account Manager, Toronto, Central & Northern Ontario
t: 416.516.0911 x248

Emily Patry, Director, Marketing & Communications
t: 416.516.0911 x240

Ellen Warwick, National Account Manager, Special Markets
t: 416.516.0911 x240

Ryan Muscat, Account Manager, Ontario & Manitoba
t: 416.516.0911 x243

Jolanda Miller, Account Manager, British Columbia, Yukon & Northern Territories
t: 604.862.3511 x248

Nikki Turner, Account Manager, Toronto, Eastern Ontario & Special Markets
t: 416.516.0911 x225

Anthony Iantorno, Director, Online & Digital Sales
t: 416.516.0911 x242

Joanne Adams, National Account Manager, Mass Market
t: 416.516.0911 x284

Jacques Filippi, Account Manager, Quebec & Atlantic Provinces
t: 1.855.626.3222 x244

Kate Condon-Morlarty, Account Manager, British Columbia
t: 604.862.3511 x247

Discounts and Returns

Wholesalers, distributors, and bookstores receive a 40% discount on all orders. Returns are limited to 20% of any single title within 6 months of original invoice for credit. Cash refunds will not be provided. A 6-month extension may also be requested within the original return period. Libraries receive a 20% discount on all orders. No returns are accepted except in the case of damaged copies. Theatres that wish to arrange for the sale of books during the run of a play may be eligible for similar terms as trade bookstores. Please contact Playwrights Canada Press for more information.

Desk and Review Copies

Playwrights Canada Press will supply desk copies on orders of 25 copies or more of a single title, to a maximum of 3 copies. To request a desk copy, please ensure that the title, author, ISBN, and number of copies are provided, along with the course name, professor’s name, enrolment, contact person, and purchase order number placed by your university or college bookstore. Please contact us with requests for review copies. Please go to http://bit.ly/pideskcopy to complete a desk copy request.

Acknowledgements

Cover photo: Crawford Jolly

Playwrights Canada Press operates on land which is the ancestral home of the Anishinaabe Nations (Ojibwe / Chippewa, Odawa, Potawatomi, Algonquin, Saulteaux, Nipissing, and Mississauga), the Wendat, and the members of the Haudenosaunee Confederacy (Mohawk, Oneida, Onondaga, Cayuga, Seneca, and Tuscarora), as well as Metis and Inuit peoples. It always was and always will be Indigenous land.

We acknowledge the financial support of the Canada Council for the Arts, the Ontario Arts Council (OAC), Ontario Creates, and the Government of Canada for our publishing activities.